

Cubit of the Ark

by David Michael

In the early morning of the 4th of January 2019, I was among a few people in a different time of history. The place of meeting seemed to be outside like at a cafe near medieval or earlier huts. There was a discussion among those there about finding the Ark of the Covenant. I found myself making some comments about this as being needed in the end times.

Keeping the Secret Hidden

Then an old man motioned for me to come over to his table. He was dressed in home spun cloth and had straggly hair and a beard and had a walking stick. He then reached down under his table where he was sitting and pulled out a very ancient book that appeared to be from the early medieval period. He then said he wanted to show me something. As he spoke, a man behind him said, "Yes... lets hear it... how can we find the Ark of the Covenant?" and pulled himself into the conversation. My sense was this man was not of the right spirit but was in allegiance with the Luciferian agenda and was not to hear about this information known to the old man.

Then the men, table and scene were gone and I was standing before an angel in some in between worldly dimension. He told me that the measurement to find the ark was critical. He talked about the the cubit of a man as compared to the cubit of an angel. He implied that both of these are important in finding the Ark since the ark was created under the design and care of angels yet was made by Moses the man. I then heard a background discussion, perhaps by saints or other angels, about the number of cubits minus one as important for sacred reasons. They questioned among themselves was the right cubit to be used for finding the Ark the cubit of a man or the cubit of an angel? The dream then ended.

The Cubit

In other studies I have read stated the cubit of a man is about 18 inches whereas the cubit of an angel is 21 inches. This ratio difference of $21:18 = 7:6$ or 12.25 % larger for the angel. If a man is 6 foot in height, the angel may be 7 foot 4 inches feet in height with this ratio. However, I have seen angels much taller than this - more like 10' in height so it may not be the real angelic cubit. If a 10' angel is compared to a man, the angelic size or cubit would be a 10:6 ratio or 60% larger or 28.8 inches in length. Perhaps the artifact to be found will include a measuring rod to identify the holy cubit and information on where to use the rod to find the Ark of the Covenant.

The Two Dreams

It is clear this dream has been provided as more detail in complementing a prior dream I received many years ago where I found Ark related artifacts hidden in 1015 AD in a cave in a Table Top or Mesa type mountain. These sacred artifacts were hidden there in 1015 AD by Romanized Hebrew-Celtic warrior priests which I observed. I have followed this leading in search of this mountain from Arkansas and now into Arizona and New Mexico associated with the Rio Grand and the Gila rivers. This dream suggests the Ark itself is not to be found within the Mesa mountain of this prior dream but we will find information that will identify the place of the Ark of the Covenant.

Also these two dreams make it clear the Luciferian priesthood has agents in also seeking to claim the Ark of the Covenant to use to legitimize the rise and power of the Antichrist. They will also use the Ark justify rebuilding the Tribulation Temple in Jerusalem. In both dreams, these evil forces were thwarted by the power of the angels of YHWH.
